Aren't You Ashamed You Old Foggy, You—

Considerable confusion has arisen in the minds of a number of Carmel parents over a questionnaire that was circulated among high school students last week containing such questions as: Do your parents live together? How many times have they been divorced? Do you have a room of your own? How many books are there in your home? Do your parents fight? Do you like them? And—Good Heavens—

At first glance these look like impertinent questions, but the teachers assure me they are asked from an entirely impersonal point of view. Their purpose is to collect material for the child's Individual Folder. The Individual Folder has accompanied the child through school and contains a record of every time he has had the measles or got an F in arithmetic since he started kindergarten at Sunset.

Now that they have two principals up at the high school besides the superintendent, a girls' and boys' principal each, whose entire job is counselling and administration, these Individual Folders will come in handy. Even a parent has to admit that a little advance data on a subject is an aid in analyzing and understanding the subject, and kids are very complicated subjects, especially when you start counselling them.

The confusion in the parents' minds is on the entire subject of counselling. Some of the less enlightened parents say that when it comes to counselling kids on how to cope with the problems of life, they could do it themselves and save the salaries of the two extra principals up at the high school. But the educators who have made a study of all this come right back with, yes, and who's going to counsel the kids on how to cope with their parents?

The main reason that parents are a little slow to warm to the counselling idea is that they don't understand it, because they didn't have any counsellors when they went to high school. They had only one principal who was superintendent to a couple of grammar schools also, and taught freshman Greek and senior solid geometry. Without any counselling whatsoever, they were allowed to grow up with their complexes and neuroses unmolested to become the interesting and difficult generation that they are. It will be different when our kids grow up. A super race, all normal, healthy, cheerful, adjusted and balanced, they will undoubtedly solve with one hand tied behind them the European situation, the race problem, and what to do about Fiume and the O. P. A. that we have made such a deplorable bungle of.

So when your child judiciously ponders on how to fill in a form containing embarrassing questions about you and how you have raised the little darling, remember, it's for the Individual Folder, to aid the Counselling System, and you're an old foggy, and if you don't keep quiet, how do you know but that a movement won't get under way to remove the child entirely from the

"I Shall Never Be Able To Say I Got Farther Up Fujiyama Than 9,000 Feet," Mary Kellogg Writes

Grandfather made it but Mary Kellogg only got half way up Mt. Fujiyama. In an old letter written to his daughter, Mrs. L. O. Kellogg, Mary's maternal grandfather, John W. Lovell, a publisher in New York City, describes his experience climbing Fuji in 1897. Mrs. Kellogg has recently received a letter from her daughter, who is serving with the Red Cross at Zama, Japan, with the Fourth Replacement Depot, telling her experience in attempting to climb the mountain.

"We started at 12:30 and drove 80 miles through beautiful country, reaching the second station at 5:30, had our dinner and started walking. The stations are like little hostels, run by Japanese to help the pilgrims up the mountain. There are ten of them, including the one at the summit. They serve tea and sell walking sticks which mountaineers get stamped at each station to show how far they got. One cigarette pays for the stamp. Carol and I soon found ourselves the last of the party along with three boys who elected to stay with us. About one-third of our group made it all the way up. They gave up all along the line. At station five we started using flashlights. At six we left timberline and began the tough climb through soft volcanic ash where you slip back one step for every two you take. We kept losing the trail. At station seven we decided to sleep a few hours. It was bitterly cold, and we lay on hard straw pallets with straw mats over us. At 4:30 we were finally up and I decided to go on with my stiff aching legs, and even though the others had abandoned the idea of going to the top, no one was willing to let me go on alone. We strapped on our equipment, picked up our sticks and set out. At the corner of the shack we heard a shout from our chaplain coming back. 'Don't go on,' he said. 'Take my word, you'll never make it. It's beyond human endurance.' With that he went inside and collapsed on the floor. We decided then and there to give up. I shall never be able to say I got farther up Fujiyama than 9,000 feet.

"The trip down was even worse than going up. The sunrise we planned to see from the top we viewed from station 6/2 and it was

Finland's Sculptor, America's Poet Take Each Other's Measure, Oittinen Doing Bust of Jeffers

BY ROSALIND SHARPE

Tall, broad-shouldered, a giant of a man who is yet not obviously nor obtrusively nor in the ordinary sense a giant, but whose magnitude lies rather in a tremendous, well-disciplined vitality, in a quiet, unassuming power and strength. A man whose keen blue eyes observe everything with penetration and humor; warm and yet with the color of the icy northern sea in them. A face that makes one he did not describe) will be unveiled next spring.

Although his chief work has been in the field of national memorials, in honor of fallen soldiers and such, he does portrait busts, figures and ceramic sculpture, and it was his bust of Sibelius which was chosen for the New York World's Fair in 1939—not only because it was so remarkably fine, but because it was also Sibelius' favorite.

A member of the Finnish Artist Society and the Board of the Artists Union of Northern Countries (which includes Norway and Sweden), Mauno Oittinen is the first to be released from Finland for artistic observation since the war, and he chose to come to America because, although he had travelled extensively in Europe, he had never seen this country before.

Overwhelmed by the material richness of the United States, particularly by its food, which seems so incredible after a three year diet in Finland of nothing but black bread and potatoes, he has found the people very kind, and confesses that he is startled by the size of the country. "So immense and big in comparison with Finland." He liked New York, and remarked of Carmel, "It's a pearl."

Later he exclaimed spontaneously, when discussing the coast, Point Lobos, and the beauty of the sea here, "It really is a jewel—even in comparison with Italy."

Oittinen, who has been living in San Francisco with his wife, Larissa (she was named after a

Carmel Citizens May Voice Opinion Before Council On Paving Plans

Plans for paving of three Carmel streets, completed this week by the engineering firm of Clayton B. Neill and George E. Bestor, were turned over to Street Commissioner Charles Childers for study and presentation to the city council.

The streets concerned are: Dolores street, Ocean to Fourth; Lincoln street, Ocean to Fifth, and Fifth avenue, Monte Verde to San Carlos.

January 14 Set For School Bond Election Date

At a special meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Carmel Unified School District, held Tuesday night at the Carmel High School, January 14, 1947, was set as the date for a bond election for the purpose of acquiring sites and setting aside money for the building of neighborhood primary schools and completing a portion of the master plan for the high school.

It was also decided that an advisory committee from the community be appointed, headed by O. W. Irwin.

The exact amount of the bond issue and the specific projects for which the money will be spent has not yet been determined.

Other business of the meeting was the acceptance of Richard Benton's resignation, and the hiring of Mrs. Hazel Shepard in his place.

Though the plans call for grading, levelling, paving and putting in gutters, neither Childers nor the council have decided the type and thickness of paving, sort of material to be used, nor the extent of the grading and guttering. Until these matters are established, the engineers cannot give an estimate of costs.

Childers stresses two points for the people to keep in mind in considering the anticipated street improvement. The blocks are for the most part in the business district; the streets are not the wooded, winding lane type from which Carmel derives much of its charm. Paving these relatively wide, straight streets would not detract from the appearance of the street or the town, and would not involve removing more than one or two trees.

The other point he stresses is that property owners will have plenty of opportunity to appear before the council to voice their wishes and opinions on the type of street work to be done before the council comes to a final decision.

The work will be paid for by assessment of the property adjacent the streets.

17 Hard-To-Get-Rid-Of Measures On Ballot—Think And Go Slowly

Here are the propositions that come up for vote on Nov. 5, as analyzed at the League of Women Voters traditional Measures Meeting in Memory Garden in Monterey. It is a non-partisan analysis by a non-partisan organization. Miss Lucille Turner has summarized the League's analysis for The Pine Cone. She points out that all except proposition No. 1 are amendments to the State Constitution and cannot be changed or repealed as easily as a law, and adds the sage advice, "When in doubt, vote No."

Mrs. Douglas Carter, vice-chairman of the elections committee in the California League of Women Voters, and Mrs. Eivind Bornholt, chairman of education in the Berkeley League, explained briefly the seventeen measures on the November ballot for the local League of Women Voters and friends and others interested at a well-attended meeting in the Memory Garden in Monterey on Wednesday. Mrs. Thor Hellum new president of the Monterey Peninsula organization, conducted the meeting, which began with a box lunch at noon. The state board, of the League took a stand on few of the measures, leaving the members to decide for themselves how to vote.

No. 1 is a bond issue to raise money to lend to veterans to enable them to acquire homes or farms. It makes the law passed for veterans' benefit after the first World War applicable to veterans of the recent war, providing the money through bonds. In favor of the measure in addition to fairness to recent veterans is the fact that the law has been well administered.

ed in the past and the state has lost no money on its loans to veterans of World War I, and all interest on these loans has been paid; it is more liberal than the GI Bill passed by Congress. Opponents argue that such loans are not needed from the state, as private capital and FHA loans are available; it is discriminatory, in helping one group of citizens; and taxes would be lost to counties because homes and farms bought with the loans are property of the state until paid for, and therefore untaxable.

No. 2, on greyhound racing, will put gambling on races within reach of low-income persons. The benefit to veterans' welfare is of a special kind, included to gain favor for the measure. Proponents argue that it would also furnish jobs for veterans at the race tracks, encourage the breeding of greyhounds, and enable the poor to indulge in dog races. Objection is on

FOOTBALL ACTIVITY ON THE PENINSULA

TONIGHT — Carmel Limiteds and Varsity at Gilroy, 6:30 p. m. Madera High School at Monterey, 7 p. m. San Jose Tech at Pacific Grove, 8 p. m.

CCAL FOOTBALL

In the B Division of the CCAL football race King City served notice that they will be the team to beat when they thoroughly shelacked the favored Pacific Grove Breakers 26 to 0. Played at King City with the temperature hovering around 90 the game was featured by hard running and blocking by the Mustangs. The King City linemen opened wide gaps in the Breaker forward wall and Mustang ball carriers poured through the holes in back of massed interference. Pacific Grove banked their hopes on a passing attack which failed to click due to the terrific charge of King City linemen. King City looked mighty potent in winning this one and appears to be a cinch to cop the B Division title.

Gonzales had a breather last week and engage the Salinas JV eleven tonight at Gonzales. Carmel downed a weak team from Menlo in a non-league tussle. The Carmel-King City game on November 2 could well decide the B championship.

In the A Division, Monterey continued undefeated by smearing Hollister 12 to 0. Monterey, at this point, appears a little stronger than any other team in the A race. Salinas has a good ball club but lacks the drive of the Toreadors. Santa Cruz is still a threat but their mettle cannot be judged until they meet Monterey.

VARSITY AND LIMITEDS AT GILROY TONIGHT

Fifty-five Carmel High football players will see action tonight when the two Padre squads engage the Gilroy Lightweight and Varsity teams at Gilroy. The Limited game will start at 6:30 and the Varsity at 8:00 p. m.

Rooters making the tred to Gilroy will be assured two hard fought football games.

Mrs. Weeden

Mrs. Carrie C. Weeden, resident of Carmel for the past two years, died Thursday morning, October 24, at a local rest home, after having been in failing health for some time.

Born January 16, 1856, she was a native of Freetown, Massachusetts, and lived in Santa Monica where she was an active member of the Baptist Church before coming to Carmel.

She leaves her daughter, Mrs. Ernestine C. Arbuckle of Carmel, her niece, Mrs. Carrie L. Comings of Carmel, three grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

Private funeral services were held at the Paul Mortuary in Pacific Grove on Thursday afternoon, October 24.

FACULTY ENTERTAINED

A dinner party was given Wednesday night, October 23, at the Mission Ranch Club by E. M. Seifert for the purpose of hearing Nelson Sewell, principal of the Salinas Union High School, speak on the subject of education.

Fifty-five people were present at the dinner, including members of the Salinas Board of Trustees, Leo Harris, the District Superintendent of Schools, trustees from the Carmel Unified School District, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hull, Mr. and Mrs. John Westover, members of the faculty of Carmel High School and several faculty members from Sunset.

E. M. Seifert was one-time president of the Carmel P. T. A., and takes an active interest in school affairs.

Dear Mr. Emlay:

It is with pleasure that we are now writing our members in Monterey and San Luis Obispo Counties to inform them that you have made an honest and intelligent study of their problems in the various bills of the Legislature has not been an easy one for you, and we know you have had to work hard and long, and we hope you may now feel that your people at home know what you have done for them.

We can understand that you may sometimes wonder if the time you put in and the work and study you give to the various public problems is worth the effort and if your people really appreciate that with which you are confronted. We can say to them that you have always been willing to allow us to appear before you to present our viewpoint on any given question, and whether you can always entirely agree with us or not is beside the point, since we know your own opinion on the subject is at least an honest and sincere one. Certainly no one can quarrel with that.

We are happy to tell them that they are fortunate to have you represent them in Sacramento and hope you will see fit to remain in the public service.

If at any time we can be of service to you we hope you will call upon us and we will be glad to act accordingly.

Yours very truly,

17 Measures On Ballot; Think And Go Slowly

the moral effect of the gambling.
No. 3, an educational measure, provides for increased salaries for teachers—$2400 annual minimum—and considerably increased help from the state funds for school districts. For the measure is the serious shortage of teachers; many teachers in the state are on special emergency certificates because they cannot qualify for the regular certificate; young persons will not go into teaching unless they have promise of better salaries, thus continuing the bad situation; the amendment would also include kindergartens for state support, where now they depend wholly on district funds, but kindergartens are still permissive, not compulsory. Opponents say the measure would give extra money to districts not needing it and would not bring equality to the poorer districts, and further it is not good to fix salaries by the constitution. The League favors this measure.

No. 4, would make No. 1 applicable for loans for business purchases as well as for farms and homes. Proponents say it is discriminatory to permit loans for farms and not for other businesses, and that similar laws are successful in other states. Objectors say that other businesses are not like farming, that other sources of loans are available, that the state would become too much involved in many business enterprises, and moreover very much more than the $100,000,000 provided in No. 1, would be needed to extend loans to all veterans seeking help for business.

No. 5, provides for a court of tax appeals. Now tax cases go to the Supreme Court, which may then refer them to one of the seven Courts of Appeals. Those in favor say that tax cases are so complicated as to require special training for decision, that growth of the population makes one more court necessary, and a special tax court would ensure uniform decisions, which is not always the case now. Opponents argue that any well-versed judge can handle any tax case, that such cases contain many other features also, and that the added cost for such a court is too high.

No. 6, for annual sessions of the legislature. In odd years the meeting would be as at present in all respects; in even years the body would meet March 1 and work on the budget and "any urgency matters." A two-thirds vote of the legislature would determine if a matter is "urgent." Proponents argue that it would be more efficient and less expensive than the present biennial sessions. In all but two years since 1924 the legislature has met, in special sessions in the even years; the state has grown so much that budget matters require too large a portion of the regular session. Opponents point to possible idleness of other legislators while the Senate budget committee is doing its preliminary work. The League board favors the measure as more efficient and less expensive, as special sessions cost more than the regular.

No. 7 would give chartered counties the right to elect the Board of Education. In favor, is the fact that cities elect their Boards, and the measure is permissive, not compulsory. Opponents point to the high standards set by state law for county Boards, who are appointed by the supervisors. The League favors this.

No. 8, gives the legislature power to set the qualifications for the County Superintendent of Schools and the salary for the office. The qualifications now set by law are high, and the County Superintendent's power was increased by the last legislature. Objectors say giving this power to the legislature would limit the democratic choice of the voter. The League favors No. 8.

No. 9, provides for a Deputy Superintendent and three Associate Superintendents of Public Instruction to be nominated by the State Superintendent and appointed by the State Board of Education without being subject to Civil Service regulations. For the measure it is pointed out that the State Board of Education and the Superintendent are badly overworked and need this help; eliminating Civil Service requirements is justified as these assistants are merely an extension of the Superintendent's power and duties, and would not weaken the Civil Service. Opponents claim it is a weakening of Civil Service and sets a bad precedent. The League is against it.

No. 10, gives the legislature power to set the governor's salary, but not less than $10,000, and provides that the salary may be raised during the present term of office. This is doing the same thing for the governor as was done for six other state offices in 1943 and 1944, whose salaries, set many years before by the constitution, were out of line with the importance and extent of their present duties. For the measure is the great growth of the state and increase in the governor's responsibilities, and the belief that salaries should not be fixed in the constitution. Opponents say it would deprive the voters of one of their last controls over the governor.

No. 11, is the most controversial on the ballot, a State Fair Employment Practices Act, to strengthen the "civil and constitutional right" to employment without discrimination for "race, religion, color, national origin, or ancestry." A considerable range of exemptions—e. g., domestic help, employers of five persons or less—prevent its working hardship on the small business. A commission is provided to enforce its provisions. Those in favor say it implements what is in the constitution, would reduce racial tensions, doesn't force hiring the unfit, prevents labor organizations from discriminating against workers. It was in effect during the war and should continue. This is based on the New York State law. Opponents say that racial prejudice cannot be legislated away; that farmers find different races do not get along well together and they would be limited to hiring just one group; furthermore, too much power is given the commission, some of which properly belongs to the court. The League favors this measure.

No. 12 gives the legislature the right to amend an initiative law; it is supposed to clarify the present law on initiatives but some persons think there is a catch in it, permitting the legislature to amend No. 11, in case it passes. The League favors No. 12.

No. 13, an educational referendum, is designed to simplify the state finance code and school laws. Proponents claim it does not alter existing guarantees of financial support, but eliminates out-of-date provisions in the constitution. Opponents say this and No. 3, make confusion in the school laws; passed by the legislature before No. 3 was started, there seems to be some conflict between them.

No. 14, is non-controversial and should be passed. It makes a definite line of succession to the governor's office in case of death or incapacity of the one in office. No objection has been stated.

No. 15, Alien Land Law, has aroused a tempest. The law, passed in 1920, gave the legislature power to amend it, and five such amendments have been passed. Now two of these amendments, one of them on the books for more than twenty years, are submitted to the voters for approval. Neither a Yes nor a No vote will affect the law. Opinion of prominent lawyers is that there's no point to the measure.

No. 16, would abolish the educational poll tax, which is useless as a tax because it has such broad exemptions, and moreover has never been enforced. Those who ask a No vote on this say that it gets a tax from men who otherwise pay no taxes. The League favors a Yes vote (to abolish a non-enforced tax.)

No. 17, for changing the name of the State Railroad Commission, which isn't what it used to be, with numerous changes in its duties. It requires Senate approval of

David Gill Opens Law Offices In Grove

David Henry Gill, 32-year-old lawyer from Washington State, who has recently come to the Peninsula with his wife, Doris, and two boys, David, 4, and Thomas, 7 weeks, says that he fell hopelessly in love with the Monterey bay when he was stationed at Camp McQuaide in 1945. So, on getting out of the army recently he opened up law offices in Pacific Grove.

A graduate of the University of Washington Law School, and a member of the Delta Theta Phi law fraternity, he practiced in Seattle, Washington, for a year before entering the army, where he spent two years on General MacArthur's staff as assistant staff judge advocate with the rank of Captain.

He went overseas with the 41st Division in March, 1942, where he served as staff judge advocate at advance bases at Port Moresby and Lae, New Guinea.

Demo Registration 5,437 Over G.O.P. In Monterey Co.

The Democrats still have the edge in Monterey County, judging by the registration for General Election figures released this week.

Total registration for the county is 35,156. Of these 19,695 are registered Democratic, 14,258 Republican, 23 Prohibition, 41 Miscellaneous, 1,139 Declined to State.

Figures for the entire state show a total registration of 4,383,963; 2,541,720 Democratic, 1,637,246 Republican, the rest prohibition, miscellaneous and declined to state.

The registration is an all time high for California, 242,632 greater than ever before. Percentage breakdown shows 57.98 percent Democratic, 37.35 percent Republican. Since the 1944 registration the Democrats have lost 1.43 percent of the total, the Republicans gaining .04, the difference being made by an increase of registrants declining to state party affiliation.

On page 6 in the Girl Scout news column, well hidden under a small sub-head, "Second Grade Brownies," you will find that Glen Clairmonte, in asking for adult leaders for the Girl Scouts and Brownies, has written an excellent editorial.

"Women who put their hearts into this voluntary work find it quite a simple matter to plan for the meetings, and the response of the girls is a great reward. Every bit of service given enriches life, and those who have room for love in their lives should avail themselves of this opportunity." There is more, well worth reading and well worth acting upon.

M. A. C. More Nearly Fulfills Its Function In Membership Concert

BY EBBEN WHITTLESEY

Proof was afforded on Sunday evening at the High School, if any proof is needed, that amateur artists of the Peninsula are capable of presenting musical programs acceptable even to the coldly appraising eye of a Carmel audience. The occasion was the members' concert of the Musical Art Club. A fair sized audience heard a program of vocal and piano selections which drew from the listeners highly enthusiastic applause. Since the club was formed originally for the purpose of providing a platform for talented amateurs and young professionals, it is encouraging to see its objectives being carried out through active participation of local artists.

Miss Ida Best set a note of simplicity and charm by her opening group of three contemporary English songs, Carmina, At Parting, and Let All My Life Be Music. Mr. Rue Manhire followed with three songs, each preceded by descriptive remarks. The last of these, the whimsical Sailors by Jacques Wolfe was particularly well handled with a view to its dramatic effect, but since it ends with a yawn on the part of the singer, was not calculated to bring the audience to its feet cheering. While Mr. Manhire gathered his forces for the next effort, Mr. Hal Garrott gave an informal talk on the proposed site for a Peninsula auditorium at the top of the hill near the Carmel Hill Fire Station.

Vocal duets are too seldom heard these days, and so it was with particular pleasure that the audience listened to Bless This House and Brown Bird Singing, sung by Mr. Manhire and Mrs. Helen Abinante. The two voices blended well, and the performance showed that the singers have had experience in ensemble singing. Mrs. Abinante's voice would have been enjoyable in solo numbers, having a very lovely quality.

Miss Dorothy Symonds was the first of two pianists on the program, playing two Liszt Transcriptions, On Wings of Song and Hark, Hark the Lark. Miss Symonds has a clear, strong tone, and technique which shows the result of intelligent understanding of her work and conscientious study. Members of the club and others who hear her are always assured of a satisfying experience.

Following the vocal duets Marjorie Legge Wurzmann gave one of the finest piano performances she has presented to the club. She played four numbers and an encore. The audience was most stirred by the Chopin Minor Scherzo of Chopin. This well-loved classic was handled with a brilliance of execution and at the same time a depth of musical understanding which the proper interpretation of Chopin requires, but which is often lacking in the work of otherwise

Girl Scouts— Brownies— Going Strong

EIGHTH GRADE GIRL SCOUTS
Last Friday evening at the Girl Scout House Mrs. Ben Updike engineered a party for Troop 20, which is made up of more than 20 girls of the eighth grade. Twenty boys were invited and there was dancing to music supplied by Mr. Alan Knight at the piano and Miss Trudy Allen on the violin. Mrs. Miles Bain and Mrs. Alan Knight were the chaperones and they also assisted Mrs. Updike in conducting games between dances. This turned out to be one of the season's best social events for the Girl Scouts, and all the guests appreciated the careful arrangements which made it such a success.

BROWNIE TROOP 4

Last Friday afternoon at 2:15 Brownie Troop 4 held an election of officers and the following were inducted into office: Mary Ann Knox, president; Suzanne Bestor, secretary; Margo Sloane, treasurer. The two new members who were installed are Dorothy Holm and Paula Steffen. These Brownies have joined in the co-operative movement of all Scouts and Brownies to collect toys from all possible contributors for shipment to the children of Greece in time for Christmas.

SECOND GRADE BROWNIES

Six girls who are in the second grade, leaving school at 3:00, are making plans to form a new troop of Brownies. They are Betty Barlow, Sharon Nielsen, Teresa Dornan, Tweed Champe, Geraldine Coxwood and Ina Adams. It is necessary for them to secure two new members, and any girls of the second grade who can join are cordially invited to do so. However, the greatest need of this new group is in the matter of leaders—two generous-minded women are thus being paged! The leaders do not need experience, but they are requested to attend a few of the training classes which meet once a week. It is then only a matter of spending one hour a week with the girls when their troop meets. Women who put their hearts into this voluntary work find it quite a simple matter to plan for the meetings, and the response of the girls is a great reward. Every bit of service given enriches life, and those who have room for love in their lives should avail themselves of this opportunity. Usually the leaders of each troop arrange to have one outdoor activity every month, a hike or a beach picnic, and the eight girls represent plenty of entertainment in return for the attention their elders give.

The Scout program includes arts, crafts, singing, dancing, dramatics, outdoor activity and a project whose aim is community or international service. All the troops are in need of more assistance from the grown-ups. Here is a chance for a Big Sister Movement right here in Carmel. If any women will volunteer to help with transportation, telephoning or lending moral support to the troop leaders, it will be greatly appreciated by those already giving of their time. Extra women to go along on hikes and picnics or to substitute when regular leaders are unavoidably kept at home with their families will be doing a real service if they will place their names on call.—G. KRAZY KAT

By George Herriman

Like all good fairy stories and comic strips, KRAZY KAT is fast becoming folklore. When George Herriman died there were readers of 48 United States papers (and four Latin American ones) who were devoted to Krazy Kat, Ignatz Mouse, Offissa Pupp and the brick with which Ignatz Mouse always kresed the Kat's bean. There were few who recognized in this comic strip a truly American and serious art form, but there were thousands who worshipped the Kat. Only a few months ago, in reviewing a recent cartoon book, Russell Maloney asked, "What ever happened to Krazy Kat?" Now here the Kat is, completely restored with fitting care for all to see.—3.75

FOR VETERANS' WELFARE VOTE "YES" ON PROPOSITION 2!

The Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Disabled American Veterans urge you to vote "YES" on Proposition 2 on the November ballot.

This measure will legalize greyhound racing in California—under strict State supervision—and turn over 4 per cent of all track wagers to a Veterans' Fund administered by the State Department of Veterans' Affairs.

It will perform a distinct service for California veterans. It will guarantee ADEQUATE FINANCING of State-sponsored welfare and rehabilitation activities, including support of the Veterans' Home at Yountville. It will relieve the taxpayer of the burden of paying for these services; greyhound racing will pay the bill instead.

California veterans ask you to support them in this campaign.

By MARY GREGORY

Something new was added to the Rally club this year when boys, chosen from among the Block C members, joined the girls at their last meeting. Bob Bell, Owen Greenan, Phil Wettengel, Paul Warner, Lew McCreery, Newton Goodrich and Art Harber are the seven new members. At a rally organized by the cheer leaders and given in an assembly Friday before the Menlo game, several of the boys showed how advantageous will be their entry into the club by putting on a humorous skit about football, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Also presented at the rally were three new school songs, the result of a recent campaign for them. The first was a hymn, the words and music of which were written by Barbara Stoney. The words and music of the second, a pep song, were written by Gloriann Douglas, and the words to the third, also a pep song, were written by Anne Fratessa to the tune of Alexander's Ragtime Band. They were first presented by the Girls Glee club, and led by John Farr, who later led the entire student body in singing them.

Girls' intramural sports started last week with quite a number turning out for basketball. Every class is represented by two teams with the exception of the senior class, which can muster only one. Even so, the senior class is favored because last year as juniors they won the championship.

Captains elected by the girls in each class are: Edelen Cory and Margaret Rigdon, freshman; Laurel Hildebrand and Cynthia Carr, sophomore; Sheila Whitaker and Nancy Anderson, junior; and Joan Carr, senior. Joy Melrose is the general manager, chosen by commissioner of girls' athletics, "Ginger" Klein with the approval of Miss Faith Conklin.

There are three officials for each game, a referee, scorer, and time-keeper, giving all girls interested a chance to take part in officiating.

Sue Dekker is the new editor of the Yearbook, appointed by commissioner of publicity and publications, Richard Templeman. The only assistant editor decided upon by Sue and Richard is "Larry" Harris, who is subscription manager. Larry, with her staff of Eleanor Bannerman, Jean Morland, Patricia Machado, Carla George, Bob Rissel, Mike Monahan, Owen Greenan, Paul Warner, Lew McCreery, and Phil Wettengel, has already started canvassing local shops for advertisements. The ads, which will cost $7.50, $12.50, $20, or $17.50 for a picture advertisement, are slightly higher than last year to meet the higher cost of publication and to make a larger, better book possible.

Specialist Lists Roses Friendly To Carmel Climate

By FLORA HARTWELL

Many eager rose enthusiasts assembled last Friday at the meeting of the Garden Section of the Carmel Woman's Club to hear Mr. C. H. Stocking, rose grower of San Jose, speak on How to Grow Better Roses in Carmel.

The speaker arrived with a tray of exquisite blossoms. He discussed the subject of rose culture from the method of planting a new bush to the correct way of picking its blossoms when matured.

The listeners were especially interested to learn which varieties find our climate congenial. As he named the roses suitable for Carmel, he showed a bunch of each of them telling of their individual charm and advantages. A few of the best roses for this region are: Sun-rose (best yellow climber), McGrady's yellow rose (excellent here), Etoile de Hollande (beautiful red), Mrs. Edward Laxton (deep pink), Peace (New Wartime rose), Lady Forteviot (Apricot), Herbert Hoover and Madame Butterfly (pink).

Two details were noted which are usually overlooked: Don't mistake new canes coming up near the ground for suckers and cut them down, the speaker warned. The foliage on new canes has foliage like the mother plant; that of suckers is different. Also three buds (leaf-buds) must be left on the branch from which a rose is picked. Make a clean cut near the leaf-bud.

Mr. Stocking has so rare a gift in organizing his talks, and developed his subject matter with such clarity that there were very few questions to be answered when he finished his discussions.

The original flower arrangements created by Mrs. W. H. Hargraves and her sister, Mrs. Walter Crow, from Texas (both gifted floral artists), lent an atmosphere of warm hospitality to the tea hour which everyone felt and enjoyed.

HI! HO! HARRIS

Excerpt from the Carmel High School Daily Bulletin, issue of Tuesday, October 22:

"Congratulations are due Mr. Leo Harris for his inspiring, heroic performance in the one-man rodeo Monday morning. Everyone should be happy to know that his thrilling exploits as a rider of the purple sage and as a dauntless, fearless cowhand in turning back the on-rushing herd of steers that were about to trample our campus were highly successful. He promises an all-school barbecue dinner should the walking beefsteaks reappear."

Leon Minear, boys' principal, is suspected of authorship of the item.

Days Before Yesterday

"Within a short time Carmel will be known not only as a center of art, but as a center for music also, as a result of the formation of the new Carmel Music Society," The Pine Cone of November 4, 1927, announced with some excitement.

"The first concert that has been booked by the society will be given by the Hart House Quartette of Toronto at the Theatre of the Golden Bough on the evening of December 9."

And sure enough, last week at our request Hazel Watrous came in with a copy of the historical first program, and accommodated with the following recollections:

"In the fall of 1927, while Miss Denny and I were lessees of the Theatre of the Golden Bough (Mr. Edward Kuster was in Salzburg) a group of music lovers met in our studio and organized the Carmel Music Society. Aim: 'To bring to the Peninsula music that is represented by the most significant programs and artists the world is offering today.'

"A board, composed of the people who were present at the first meeting, elected Mrs. Edward A. Kluegel president. A program of four concerts was chosen: The Hart House Quartette, Walter Giesecking, pianist, Kathryn Meisle, contralto, and Reginald Werrenrath, baritone, and one extra-series concert, Horace Britt, 'cellist.

"At the death of Mrs. Kluegel, which occurred during the following year, Miss Dene Denny was elected president. She served for three years and was followed by Mrs. Henry F. Dickinson, Dr. R. A. Kocher, Miss Emily Pirkin, Noel Sullivan, and now Franklin Dixon.

"Mr. Frederick M. Blanchard was a generous patron of the Carmel Music Society from the beginning up to the time of his death. He served as vice-president during the second year. Mrs. Blanchard continued to be a patron and left his substantial support of good music for the Peninsula."

But what of that first concert at the Golden Bough on December 9? We turn back to The Pine Cone files of the period and learn in the issue of the 9th: "Governor C. O. Young, who is to be in Carmel Friday evening, will be the guest of the Carmel Music Society on that evening, he and his private secretary, Charles Whittecome, at the concert of the Hart House String Quartette. At the close of the concert there will be an informal public reception for the governor at Pine Inn."

It's not until the issue of the 16th that we get a review of the great event. And judging by The Pine Cone music critic it was a GREAT EVENT.

"He who is wise will open every door and window of his soul to the incoming of life's most inspiring influences.

"That is why we who came to Carmel because it held for us an epitome of all that is most beautiful and best in the realm of created things are righteously jealous of her loveliness, and seek to keep intact, as nearly as possible, those rare and pristine treasures which attracted us to her in the beginning and which, like all other cherished possessions may be so swiftly and easily destroyed by the ruthless hands of men whose only God is the God of Greed and selfish Exploitation.

"And that is why that wonderful audience, made up of the finest of Carmel's dwellers, came to the Theatre of the Golden Bough last Friday evening, to listen to the Hart House Quartette. Came to open the doors and windows of their souls, so that the Choir Invisible might for a few brief moments sing to them of things which their higher consciousness many times senses, but which they have seldom an opportunity to contact so intimately—and so perfectly.

"Yes, it was truly a feast fit for the Olympians which the Hart House gave us!"

IN MEMORY OF GENERAL STILWELL

*Silence the fanfare—let the words be few—
Here was a man great in simplicity.
He was not tripped by fame, for well he knew
How empty is the world's duplicity.
His deeds remain his tribute carved in time;
Duty the love he bore his fellow-man;
For this he found no scarp too hard to climb,
No sweating jungle trail too rough to span.*

*Honours but wreathed him with humility.
He laid them quietly before the feet
Of those who trod the long hard road with him.
He was too clear a soul for vanity.
He carried high through victory or defeat
A light too rare in life's brief interim.*

—DORA HAGEMEYER

A STRAY COME BACK

*When winter mutes a wood of note and tone
Of bird and the sprung leaves are limp from rain
And cold, I hear a needed, wanted strain,
As one returned who has been long alone.*

*The silent woodfolk beckon, though I hear
No call, from tree and ground an unheard air
Beats for a stray come back, to briefly share
An interval and hold it tight and near.*

*Warm with the kindling from a wood rat's nest,
This open house roofed by a solitude,
A shelter I find only in a wood,
Is the one home where I can take my rest.*

—ALEX R. SCHMIDT

EYES WEST

*From atolls, clinging sapphire,
On silence blueely hazed
He gazes, eyes unshaded,
As once Magellan gazed.*

*Far-sighted navigator
The rapid wing sets free,
He looks again to westward
And this austerer sea.*

*The forward planes are homing.
The torrent of their flight
Grows in the sky-way, azure
Beyond the palms, the light.*

—HOWARD RAMSDEN

THE GOBLET

*As a black smooth pool, and the trees drinking from it,
And showing their leaves in its water,
So, companion of my loneliness,
I gave you my heart to drink from.*

—MIRIAM ALLEN DEFORD

PALE ACACIA HOURS

*Here is economy of light,
Where, fragile as fawns, the pale acacia hours
Work their swift geometry through leaves;
And here, the squat moss, like a green leprosy,
Covers the branches of oaks.*

Have You Read . . . ?

BY NANCY LOFTON

In a straightforward reportorial style, Mary Floyd Williams describes in Fortune, Smile Once More! the San Francisco of the 1850s. Her concern is not with figures of civic and domestic virtue but with as ruthless a band of cutthroats as any who ever slugged a passer-by just on the chance there might be gold dust in his pockets. Her characters, when not out-and-out criminals, walk an ill defined line between sharp dealing and plain thievery. Her background is filled with the various excitements that kept the San Francisco of those days from ever settling down to peace and calm. First a fire—clearly a case of arson—then a mysterious disappearance with murder indicated, a host of burglaries every night to keep things moving, with piracy, perjury, blackmail, and every known felony thrown in for good measure.

The first portion of Miss Williams' book is laid in a penal colony in Van Diemen's Land. She takes her leading character, a convict named Watkins, through harrowing experiences, which partly explain his subsequent conduct. Finally, with the aid of a lady's maid named Mary, Watkins steals a boat and with several convict companions manages to make his way to San Francisco, where no man's origin was questioned.

In her descriptions of the San Francisco of that time Miss Williams has combined the results of very extensive research with a vivid imagination to make a moving and lively picture in which were mingled people from all over the world, drawn to the city by a hope to dabble their fingers in the stream of gold that was pouring down from the hills. Her transported convicts quickly find themselves at home in the section of the city known as Sidney Town, populated largely by colonials from Australia and neighboring regions. The Americans, writes Miss Williams, quickly condemned all the colonials as Sidney Ducks from the yellow clothes worn in the penal colonies and "not without reason suspected them as being thieves, incendiaries and murderers." Her convicts led by Watkins, who takes the name of Whittaker, meet varying fortunes, but Whittaker's ability, both as employee of a public house and as a skilled burglar, led him to a position of great prominence among the San Francisco half-world until he is drawn into the gang led by the notorious English Jim, a black-hearted felon as ever was. English Jim and his band finally succeed in terrorizing the city to such an extent that the business men of the city form a Committee of Vigilance to deal with any criminals they can catch in a summary and effective fashion. A quick hanging seemed the only way to deal with criminals since there was no jail in the city capable of keeping the most stupid bandit behind bars overnight.

The Committee of Vigilance succeeds in cleaning up the city and English Jim and his followers, including Whittaker, are finally taken and variously shot or hanged but not until they have had a merry time of burning and looting.

Through the story of Whittaker's exploits runs the account of Mary, the woman who loved him and followed him to San Francisco. She was a rather simple character who feared rightly that her lover would come to no good end. In her treatment of Mary at the end of the tale, Miss Williams finally endows the woman with vitality and dignity when she is called before the Committee of Vigilance to explain her connection with the Sidney Ducks. At last, damned and discredited in the eyes of a city suddenly become most moral, Mary sets her face once again toward Australia.

Miss Williams' book is chiefly commendable for the sense of a city and a time past brought to life in great detail. The book is filled with incidental information about the people and happenings of that day and her writing is simple and

Henrietta Shore's One-Man Show

BY NANCY LOFTON

Henrietta Shore's retrospective one-man show, now hanging in the Carmel Art Association Gallery on Dolores street, gives an immediate impression of the breadth and versatility of her painting. Henrietta Shore has been a serious and intensive student of painting all her life and in her show one may see canvases dating from many periods in her life, marking her gradual progression through one style of painting to another until at last she evolves a manner of painting which is particularly and peculiarly her own.

In two of her portraits, for example, the Spanish Marquesa and Laura Donkin, one can sense the influence of Robert Henri and Charles Hawthorne, and a very personal feeling of delicacy and grace. Her color is subtle and subdued and the emphasis is on mass rather than line.

In the large paintings of children, such as Girl With Banana and Margaret's Tea Party, there is evidence of increasing interest in color for its own sake and a distinct lightening in key.

In her more recent work, the flower studies and the giant cactus, Henrietta Shore's style becomes peculiarly her own. Here is the infinite care and almost brooding precision which marks her work today. Her line is sure and clean and her color is brilliant and yet subtle. In the painting of the Ghost Trees of Point Lobos she has made an absorbing translation into color of the violence twisted into the forms of the ancient trees. Her canvas of Point Sur Light-house gives an impression of cleanliness and mystery, an unusual combination, and in her studies of Iris and Datura and Gloxiana one can sense her mystical appreciation of nature with its infinite richness of color and form in even its most minute manifestations.

It is unfortunate that more of Henrietta Shore's pencil drawings are not included in the show. The two drawing of magnolias and iris are tantalizing examples of her ability to say more in black and white than many painters can say with the entire spectrum. Her invioluted forms are crystal thin, but solid. In her hands the drawing pencil is capable of the most finished and subtle effects.

With such a retrospective, one is able to take the full measure of Henrietta Shore as a painter, to realize the years of work and study through which she developed to her present stature.

Sculptor And Poet Take Each Other's Measure

Greek city), and 15-year-old daughter, Anja, most of the time since his arrival in the United States three months ago, would like to move to Carmel if only he could find a studio. "But that is not possible," he added philosophically. He will remain in the United States another six months before returning to Finland via Sweden, where unfinished orders await him.

It is Anna Sainio who is responsible for his meeting with Robinson Jeffers.

Long an admirer of Jeffers' work, whom she considers America's greatest poet, she read some of it to Oittinen in Finnish. Immediately enthusiastic, he rushed down to Carmel to see about doing a portrait bust.

Of the first encounter between sculptor and poet, Anna Sainio said, "It was very funny. He sat in one chair, and Mr. Jeffers in another. They took a long, long look." But the silence was finally broken after they had thoroughly taken each other's measure and discovered a mutual knowledge of French and German.

Lately at Tor House they have been reading aloud Robinson Jeffers' Medea, which both Mauno Oittinen and Anna Sainio feel is magnificent, surpassing in greatness "any Greek play written by a Greek."

Altogether, one gains the impression that there could not have been a happier meeting than between these two men, both of whom seem more conversant with immensities than with trivia, whose attention is focussed on mountains and seas and the intensely living beauty of things rather than with the cluttering details which absorb so many people.

Incidentally, Oittinen's son, Antti, who is now attending the University of Helsinki, intends to be a writer, thus promising to add another illustrious name to the family of Oittinen.

Although Mauno Oittinen did not bring with him to America any of his large pieces of sculpture, he has brought several ceramic figures, which it may be possible to see at the Carmel Art Association Galleries in a few weeks, after he has become an official member.

ELECTRIC RANGE

1 COOKS FAST
SAVES TIME

I like the way my new electric range goes right to work cooking food. With the new, high-speed units, it's just "click" and I get heat quick.

2 BETTER
COOKING RESULTS

I'd say all foods taste better when cooked electrically. And the accurate time and temperature controls assure perfect recipe results.

3 GIVES ME LOW
COST ELECTRICITY

My use of an electric range earns me a lower electric rate. It's like a quantity discount. I consider electric cooking a bargain value.

4 DEPENDABLE
AND SAFE

I find it amazingly simple to cook electrically. And it is just as safe and easy as turning on an electric light.

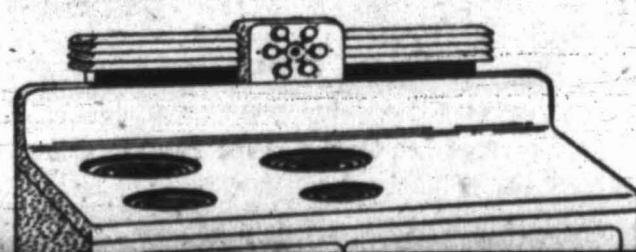

5 CLEAN AS
ELECTRIC LIGHT

My electric range not only cooks with clean, pure heat but it helps keep my kitchen walls and woodwork clean and free from smudge.

It is amazingly easy to turn out a perfect meal with an automatic electric range. There is no magic to it, just flip a switch and you can cook, broil, bake, or roast to perfection with never a worry about temperature adjustments.

With an electric range you have measured heat—the same amount of heat each time—and results will be uniformly good because you have positive temperature control.

Yes, cooking on a modern electric range means less work and consistently better results. Clean, fast, safe cooking—the electric way—and on low electric rates.

Mrs. Upjohn Gives Woman's Club Lending Library Once Over Easy

Up the Stream of Time by Viscountess Byng, wife of a former Governor General of Canada, would make a beautiful gift for flower lovers, Mrs. H. S. Upjohn said in her Looks at Books program for the Carmel Woman's Club Book Section meeting Monday afternoon.

Viscountess Byng's great interest in flowers leads her to far corners of the earth and has resulted in an international garden at Thorpe Hall, the ancestral home in England. Carmel's Lester Rowntree once conducted the Viscountess on a jalopy trip all over California during the wild flower season and the author's description of a California hillside, blanketed in blue, led Mrs. Upjohn to quote, "To enjoy in memory your former life is living your life twice."

Up the Stream of Time is among the 70 books in the club's lending library. Speaking briefly on some of the others, Mrs. Upjohn said that Daphne du Maurier's King's General and Thomas Costain's Black Rose illustrate how the public loves the color and gusto of old tradition of the man who has been fighting for 24 hours but is still immaculate and unruffled. Also historical and colorful but more genteel are Helen Morgan's story of Dolly Madison, Mistress of the White House, Helen Campbell's Diary of a Williamsburg Hostess, and Elswyth Thane's Ever After, the third of a series of historical novels against a Williamsburg background.

After commenting on a number of biographies and autobiographies in the club library Mrs. Upjohn said that she believed one of the most beautifully written books in the English language is Gladys Schmidt's David the King. The author is a teacher in Pittsburgh Technical School and is now doing research work on Saint Sebastian, although the book will not appear for several years.

Before reading The Sudden Guest, a story of two hurricanes which Mrs. Upjohn described as the "finest novel on the sea," she recommends reading the review by Joseph Henry Jackson. The book could be read for the story alone, she added, "but there is more than just the story."

The lending library is in charge of two librarians, Miss Edith Comings and Miss Elizabeth Ogier, both of Pacific Grove.

Presiding at the tea table following the meeting were Dr. Helen Field and Miss Kate Firmin, and the hostesses were Mrs. W. A. Buckner and Mrs. Louis Sawyer.

Mary Kellogg Writes About Fujiyama Hike

one of the most beautiful I have ever seen."

The happy ending of this story is the letter from Grandfather Lovell who was 46 and no athlete when he climbed the mountain. A party of five including one American woman and three Japanese were in the group. Wrote Mr. Lovell, "At the start of the climb it was raining, so one of the Japanese declined to go, saying that a man is a fool if he doesn't go up Fuji, but he is a bigger fool if he tries to go up twice. The mountain is 12,392 feet, and is so steep that it took us from 10 in the morning till 8 at night to get to our sleeping station at 10,000 feet. We rose at 4 the next morning and saw the sunrise, the most beautiful thing I ever saw. The American woman was tied by sashes to two guides, one of whom pushed and the other pulled so she got to the top. It took eight hours to make the last 2,000 feet. Going down was a case of taking long jumps in the loose volcanic ash, so the descent was made in two hours against eighteen for the ascent."

Mrs. Potter Getting New Mrs. Goose Book Ready For Presses

The Zenas Potters, newly returned to their Carmel Woods home, are bemoaning the fact that they can't indulge their first impulses, renew Carmel friendships and work in their garden.

Mrs. Potter, one of the most prolific writers for children, is preparing material for a third book about Mrs. Goose, which the publisher, J. B. Lippincott, is urgently calling for, for the 1947 list. This will keep both the Potters' noses to the grindstone since Mrs. Potter does the illustrating and Mr. Potter is the ink. Mrs. Potter also has a new book of verse for very young children coming out this fall, sometime before Christmas. It is called Noddy, and Rinehart is the publisher.

The Mrs. Goose stories appear monthly in American Childhood, where they have had a place for the last fifteen years.

Faith Is For the Future, Reason For The Past—Dr. E. O. Sisson

"We must see that in spite of much talk to the contrary, there cannot be conflict between faith and reason," Dr. Edward O. Sisson told his Forum audience at Sunset Auditorium Wednesday night.

The two great functions of the human spirit, faith and reason find their setting in what we call time, he pointed out. Look squarely at this time with its past, present and future: the past is fixed, cannot be changed, so we can do nothing to it; but we can know it. The future is not fixed, so we cannot know it, but we can do something to it; thus the future is the realm of faith, or with another word, the realm of the will. The will must not meddle with the past nor presume to remold it; what has happened, has happened, and no imaginable striving of ours can change it. But the future is malleable, it can be hammered into shapes "nearer to our heart's desire."

On this view of faith two things come clear: first, faith is never believing that something did or did not happen in the past; for example, that the old Israelites invaded Canaan, or that David slew Goliath; nor even that a man named Jesus worked miracles and was crucified. These are all matters for knowledge, for inquiry, for submitting to evidence, and for unbiased judgment on the basis of the available facts.

Toward the future our stance is radically different: we can, or are convinced we can, change it from what it would be if we did not act. We say "We will have it so!" and bend our energies to the task. This is the positive side of faith. Whether there is any faith or not is settled only by action. The Great Galilean puts it bluntly: "By their works ye shall know them." Action is the test of faith; any mere attesting in words, articles of creeds, pledges of allegiance, are indeed not without their place in life, but they are no substitute for deeds. When we turn from what has been, and even from what now is, to face what is to be, then nothing like surrender is called for, but hope, imagination, vision, drive, the sturdy will, courage and resolution—these are the other names of faith. So far are faith and reason from conflicting with each other under any possible circumstances.

Where then does conflict come in, for there is no lack of it? That is quite plain: men differ in their views and conclusions concerning fact itself. Far more important, men differ in their faiths, in their desires, their hopes and aspirations. Two men with the same facts, the same powers of intelligence, face each other in conflict because they seek conflicting ends. Logic never settles any such conflicts. The supreme question about any man is not what does he know? but what does he want?

The subject of Dr. Sisson's next Wednesday evening lecture will be "The Beloved Community."

RETURNS TO PASADENA

Mrs. T. S. Bell, who has spent the summer in her Carmel cottage on Lopez, returned this week to her home in Pasadena.

DO YOU HAVE A TEACHING CREDENTIAL?

The hope and expectation at Carmel High School and Sunset is that all the teachers will remain hale and healthy throughout the school year and that nobody will have to stay home to nurse a cold or a sprained ankle; nevertheless, a list of substitute teachers is a desirable thing to have around, just in case, and the administrative authorities would appreciate it if the people in Carmel who have teaching credentials and would be willing to do substitute work occasionally would phone or write either Superintendent Leo Harris or Boys' Principal Leon Minear at the high school.

KASKAS SINGS TOMORROW

The concert is to be held at the Pacific Grove High School auditorium and will start at 8:15 o'clock. The concert has been postponed a week as Kaskas was originally scheduled to sing on October 21.

Bjoerling Exhibits Superb Tone, Power And Largeness of Phrase

By SOPHIE HARPE

Jussi Bjoerling, in last Friday evening's concert at Sunset Auditorium, certainly 'made the welkin ring!' (Isn't it comforting to know we are considering enclosing a more generous slice of the welkin in which to vibrate; musically speaking, of course.)

As I sat listening, albeit a bit tensely, to the gorgeous tones flowing out over the audience a nagging little thought way back somewhere in memory recalled the power of a single well-placed note to shatter a glass but more assurance returned with the recognition of Mr. Ryland's capabilities in the matter of solid architectural engineering and the realization that Sunset Auditorium could "take it" and so, moving back from the edge of my seat, relaxed and became enthralled and bemused right along with the rest of the audience by one of the finest dramatic tenors of our age.

Mr. Bjoerling, a mere youth of thirty-five, chronologically speaking, has traveled far, musically. He has superb tone, power (and to spare), largeness of phrase and barring a slight and attractive accent—excellent diction. Like most Europeans he has as well a beautiful and thoroughly enjoyable command of the various languages in which he sings.

The Mozart aria from Don Giovanni which opened the program did just that but with the second group, especially in Wolf's Verborgeneheit and Liszt's Es muss ein Wunderbares sein he revealed the tenderness, beauty of tone and impeccable musical taste of which he is capable; and, in the quieter passages, at times even reminiscent of Caruso's velvety quality. This illusion vanished, however, in the brilliant rendering of the heavier arias in which a superb display of vocal dynamics and power were paramount but in which the long-to-be remembered mellifluous tone of Caruso had no apparent counterpart.

The transition from opera to concert is admittedly a difficult one to make, each with its specific demands as to programming and artistic production requirements. To slip down to Carmel for a concert engagement that must be sandwiched in between exacting operatic roles in San Francisco, with barely enough time to remove the grease paint, is no small achievement and would explain the preponderance of operatic arias on the program. There will, of course, be two schools of thought on this matter of programming; for those of us who are ardent opera enthusiasts—we will, to be sure, take our opera when and where we find it, in toto or by selected arias on a concert program, sans settings, costumes, dramatic movement, orchestra accompaniment, etcetera; but for those of us who are purists and prefer opera in its opulent and jeweled setting we rather regretted the stressing of arias as it afforded so little opportunity to hear Mr. Bjoerling in examples from the rich vocal repertoire of the concert stage.

The Scandinavian group, in which one would naturally anticipate an intimate and personal interpretation, peculiarly nationalistic in flavor, only the Peterson-Berger number, The Maiden under the Linden, achieved this distinction.

Of the larger works, Giordano's Andre Chenier was the high light of the evening. It had everything and in rich measure. Even the accompaniment of Frederick Schauwecker was attuned to the brilliancy of the selections and more than ably supported the artist.

But to tender Mr. Bjoerling a more unique acclaim would be not only to admit the lustre and brilliance of his tone, the irresistible tidal surge of melody and feeling which is so richly his, but above and beyond all this to admit him to the ranks of the very few great artists who like Caruso and Chaliapin, in the past, and Ezio Pinza and Marian Anderson, his contemporaries, have had and do have the ability to achieve the astounding effect of making one forget the usual binding classifications of soprano, contralto, tenor or baritone as they break through into the realms of pure unclassified tone, passing beyond limitations. This he achieved in the Wolf, Liszt, and Goddard numbers and in the superb quality of Giordano's Andre Chenier.

The city of Hollister, San Benito County seat, was incorporated March 26, 1874.

Colonel Rigdon Home

Colonel Jonathon N. Rigdon is re-united with his family in Carmel after 33 months in the Pacific area. He arrived from Korea where he was in command of the Seoul Hospital. During the war he was Commander of the Forty-Ninth General Hospital in Manila and the Ninth General Hospital on Biak, New Netherlands. Colonel Rigdon and his family came to Carmel when he was in Command of the Seventh Field Hospital at Fort Ord. Mrs. Rigdon has been prominently identified with civic and philanthropic enterprises during her residence here. He is on sixty day durlough and waiting orders of re-assignment in the States. For the present the family will keep their home in Carmel.

B.P.W.C. Meets Friday

The regular social meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club will be held Friday October 25, instead of Thursday, at the home of the president, Miss Harriet Coombs in Pacific Grove. A dessert supper will be served promptly at 7 p. m. so the program may begin at 8.

The speaker, Mrs. Helen Clark Cranston of Carmel, who is substituting for Mrs. Jonathan M. Rigdon, chairman of Government in Action of the League of Women Voters will be introduced by Miss Elmarie Dyke, chairman of legislation for the B. P. W. C., who is in charge of the program. Reservations should be made in advance by calling Miss Coombs, telephone 5896.

Reception at Art Gallery

Henrietta Shore was honored by a reception given at the Art Gallery Sunday afternoon by the Board of Directors and their wives. The occasion was the opening of Miss Shore's show at the gallery. Friends of Miss Shore and admirers of her painting crowded the rooms. Tea was served from a table laid with a yellow cloth and decorated with clusters of yellow chrysanthemums and Chinese paper-tree leaves. Pouring were Mrs. Nancy Lofton, Miss Sophie Harpe, Miss Jean Kellogg and Mrs. Abel Warshawsky. Hostesses who contributed to the delightful and informal party were Mrs. John Montague, Mrs. Robert Doolittle, Miss Florence True, Mrs. Phil Nesbitt, Mrs. Lee Randolph, and Miss Gladys Harvey.

Luncheon for Outlands

Congressman and Mrs. George Outland were guests of honor at a luncheon given yesterday at La Ribera Hotel under the auspices of the Carmel Women's Democratic Club. The friendly and enthusiastic outpouring of Congressman Outland's admirers must have warmed the heart of this seasoned campaigner as Representative of the Eleventh District. Mr. Outland made an informal talk and many had the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Outland, who is an artist and looks forward to coming to Carmel to do some painting. The luncheon was in charge of Mrs. Florence Sharon Brown, Mrs. Henry Stuart and Mrs. Paul Low.

University Women

Art and Carmel furnish the theme for the meeting of the American Association of University Women tonight at the Carmel Art Gallery, beginning at 7:45. Mrs. Nelly Montague, curator of the gallery, will tell of the development of the local association and the relation of her office to the organization and its work. Mrs. Montague has been in and out of Carmel for more than thirty-five years, having begun her acquaintance as a vacation visitor, during which time she has seen the growing importance of the artists in the community and the expansion of village life. Mrs. Charles Simpson of Monterey, chairman of arts and crafts in the A. A. U. W., is in charge of the evening program.

Peek Back Stage

After the performance of Jack and the Beanstalk and The Red Hen and the Fox by the Walter Scott Puppets tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at Sunset Auditorium, Mr. Scott will give a demonstration of how the puppets work. The performance is sponsored by the P. T. A. which will receive a percentage of the profits. Mrs. Stephen Crouch, Mrs. Gene Scheffer, Mrs. Susan Blair, Mrs. Mary Elliot, Mrs. R. C. Doerr and Mrs. C. C. Levitt will act as ushers. Tickets may be purchased Friday, 11:30 to 1:00 at Sunset School or Saturday at the box office.

Pop Smith Flies Again

Pop Smith returned Tuesday from Bakersfield, where he flew to visit his daughter-in-law, Hazel Smith, and his little granddaughter, Judy. Hazel, who was employed at Fort Ord with an eye specialist, is now working for a former army eye specialist in Bakersfield. Pop's excuse for flying is that when he gets to thinking about his granddaughter nothing but a plane is fast enough to get him there to see her.

Mrs. Grainer Returns

Mrs. Peter Grainer of New York City will arrive in Carmel sometime next week. Mrs. Grainer has many friends here, where she has been coming for a number of years. She spent some weeks in Santa Fe recovering from a severe bout with the flu last Spring in New York, has been in San Francisco and will achieve the real objective of her western trip when she reaches Carmel.

vivid. Only once or twice, and then only fleetingly, does she descend to the "Hush, Love is here" technique favored by the authors of the soap ads and Forever Amber. Her style is frequently pungent and succinct, and the reader should be carried along rapidly from first page to last. She manages to create a vivid sense of actually being present, walking down the plank streets of the city or stealing out on a fog-bound wharf to rob some ill-guarded safe. One scene in particular struck home—the mad rush of people after one of the frequent fires, into the still burning city to rent houses vacated by less fortunate souls.

We may not be much as lovers, but we're mighty hard on pests.

As a matter of fact, we make a business

We massacres 'em!

We pant to control your ant.

Proposition 3 will relieve the teacher famine in California by guaranteeing public school teachers a minimum salary of $2400 a year. Local taxes will not be increased by this measure. State funds are available for this purpose.

Two hundred California organizations, including the following, urge you to vote "YES" on 3—Republican and Democratic Parties, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, AFL, CIO, Native Daughters and Native Sons, and P-TA,

And remember—when you vote "Yes" on 3, be sure to vote "No" on 13, which would further reduce present inadequate school appropriations.

Vote "YES" on 3!

On Playing the Fiddle Badly

A favorite recreation in our town is getting together in one or another's home and making music. There's somebody at the piano; a guitar; a fiddle player; and Molly Birtles even has a harp!

What comes out isn't the best music in the whole world. In fact, a lot of it is downright bad. But nobody even thinks to question or to criticize.

Because the spirit of harmony is there—harmony between folks who like each other's company, who enjoy the simple, homey atmosphere —with nothing more exciting than old songs, and a glass of moderate beer or cider.

From where I sit, it's a heap more important to be a poor fiddle player, than not to play at all. More important to be a part of the American scene—with its community music, home entertainment, friendly glass of beer—than to hold out for professional perfection. (Besides, I like to play the fiddle—even badly!)

Lt. Alford Swan, Twice Torpedoed, Receives Presidential Citation

Alford C. Swan, a veteran of five and a half years overseas duty with the U. S. Maritime Service, in which he served as chief commissary steward, Lieutenant Senior grade, received this week the Presidential Citation for courage and distinguished service under combat conditions. Considered the Medal of Honor of the Maritime Service, the citation is the highest award which can be given to those courageous non-combatants who kept the supply lines going. It was signed by Harry S. Truman.

Swan served mainly on powder ships, an especially dangerous service, for they carried shells and high explosives, and during the invasion of Tobruk, when the allies were chasing Rommel out of South Africa, he was on a ship which hauled the conversion of P-38s needed to beat the German Junkers in the invasion of Italy.

His ships were torpedoed twice—the first time 300 miles south of the Unalaska Pass off Dutch Harbor in 1942, and the second time on a shuttle-run from Murmansk, Russia, when they were carrying 75 German officer prisoners and were hit off Borje, Norway. Swan was wounded in the latter engagement, during the explosion of the ship, when he was thrown against a bulkhead. He spent five days in a life raft before being picked up. He also participated in the Normandy invasion in 1944, and, in addition to the Presidential Citation, holds the North Pacific battle bar; the Pacific War Zone bar (for Pearl Harbor); the Merchant Marine Defense bar; the Mediterranean Middle East War Zone bar; the Atlantic War Zone bar, and the Merchant Marine Combat bar.

A resident of Carmel for the past twenty-five years, Swan is descended of the same family as Jack Swan, who built the First Theatre in Monterey, and he has worked all his life as a chef. He was executive chef at Antoine's in New Orleans, the Santa Barbara Biltmore, at the Del Monte Lodge and the Del Monte Hotel, Sade's and was at the Mission Ranch Club when it first opened. His wife, Carolyn, now has the salad bar at the Pine Inn.

Swan, who has been back at his home on San Carlos street for a year, says Carmel looks pretty good to him, but it's sprouted "a multitude of new faces."

He leaves this week for Letterman Hospital for medical treatment, and hopes, after his release, to get back to his old job as chef again.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him" (James 1:12). This is the Golden Text for the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, October 27, on the subject "Probation After Death."

Citations from the Sermon: Philippians 1:9, 10. "And this I pray, that your love may abound yet more and more in knowledge and in all judgment; That ye may approve things that are excellent; that ye may be sincere and without offense till the day of Christ." "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. "Work out your own salvation," is the demand of Life and Love, for to this end God worketh with you. . . . Love is not hasty to deliver us from temptation, for Love means that we shall be tried and purified" (p 22).

St. John's Chapel Del Monte

The Rev. Theodore Bell
Chaplain

St. John's Chapel is a beautiful little church nestling in a grove of giant oak trees. Men and women from many lands have found it to be a place apart. It may be that you also will find its atmosphere congenial to the spiritual life. The Chapel is open all day long. Those who seek in its stillness to grow more conscious of God's presence do not go unrewarded.

Sunday services at eight and eleven a. m. The Chapel is close to Hotel Del Monte.

OUTLAND REPLIES TO A DELIBERATE MIS-STATEMENT

In several advertisements that have appeared in this newspaper it was stated that George Outland voted for ceilings on veterans' training pay. The following telegram is your Congressman's answer to this charge:

"I did not vote for ceilings on veterans' training pay. This bill was slipped through the House of Representatives on next to last day of session by tricky parliamentary procedure. Stop. I, and I believe, great majority of House members, would have opposed its passage. Stop. If re-elected will definitely work for removal of such unjust ceilings.

Such A Measure Completely False."

Whether it's in the brilliance of a shaft of light cutting through an oak tree or in the grace of a drift of cloud above a Carmel Valley hill, MORLEY BAER, PHOTOGRAPHER, has caught something vivid and beautiful in the photographs he is using for Christmas cards. Look in his small gallery on Sixth near Dolores to select a beautiful card that will fittingly carry Christmas greetings from Carmel. If you wish, MORLEY BAER will photograph your home, or your family, or perhaps the view from your window and make up the pictures into fine greeting cards which will be pleasing gifts in themselves.

LIAL'S MUSIC SHOP on Ocean and Monte Verde has a new Victor album to whet the taste of an opera lover. This Treasury of Grand Opera features the voices of Licia Albanese, Gladys Swarthout, Leonard Warren and others of the Metropolitan, singing famous arias from the more familiar operas. Toscanini directs the Victor Orchestra in several of the recordings. There are scenes from Aida, La Traviata, Faust, Lohengrin, Carmen and I Pagliacci recorded in this Victor Album. You'll find considerable entertainment in the Show Albums at LIAL'S too. Kitty Carlisle and other popular singers have made a memorable album of the songs from Roberta, and the original Broadway cast of Saint Louis Woman has recorded the music from that show, not forgetting to sing Legalize My Name in a low-down manner.

THE BEAU ARTS PHOTOGRAPHY SHOP on Lincoln and Ocean can supply you with practically any kind of camera you wish. Several 35 mm. cameras have come in and there are German cameras and movie cameras in the shop to enable Mr. Hudder to find just the camera suited to your needs. A camera without film is not the world's most useful machine, but your camera need never go without film if you pay a visit to THE BEAU ARTS PHOTOGRAPHY SHOP, where they manage to keep in a singularly complete film stock. Your film will be skilfully developed and printed for you by BEAU ARTS, all in a 24 hour period. The shop does its own photo finishing right in Carmel.

If you are very tired of the generally loose way in which people use words, there are two books up in THE CARMEL BOOKSELLERS SHOP on Mission north of Fifth that might well prove satisfying to you. Wendell Johnson, in People in Quandaries, subtitled the Semantics of Personal Adjustment, reached the conclusion early in his book that language difficulties and bad understanding of words themselves are behind much of life's frustration. Man, he says, is unique among created things, in that he is able to talk himself into difficulties that would not otherwise exist. The word Semantics, by the way, which is bandied about considerably means nothing more than a study of the meaning of meaning. George Santayana's Idea of Christ in the Gospels is another book in which are written the clear and brilliant thoughts of a man thinking with precision. He deals in no fuzzy abstractions, but reverently seeks the significance of his thesis.

Horrid grinning mouths and glaring eyes shine up from the counters in the CARMEL BAKERY on Ocean between Lincoln and Dolores, where batches of cookies lie waiting for Hallowe'en, all decked out in appropriate symbols. There are cakes decorated for Hallowe'en, too, and while the individual plum puddings have no particular decoration, a plum pudding is beautiful enough in itself with its faint scent of rum and its insides filled with raisins and nuts and a glorious mixture of diced and sliced tidbits. CARMEL BAKERY'S raisin bread is making its appearance regularly now, on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, and the beautiful twisted loaves brushed with Poppy or Sesame seed come from ovens on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

All we need to say about the beautiful suits in MAXINE'S on Dolores south of Ocean is that they are Kay-Saks originals made from the finest of Botany wools. The name Kay-Saks guarantees you the newest and neatest in suits, with tiny waists, flared jackets, broad shoulders and a general smoothness and smartness in appearance, and the name Botany guarantees you the finest wools. The all-wool gabardine in many of MAXINE'S suits is beautiful enough to frame. Look for the three piece suit in a soft peacock green with simple classic lines and a squared-off shoulder detail. There's another fine suit, two piece this time, with flippant flare to the back, in a rich Hunter's Green and a similar model in deep crimson. Kay-Saks suits in fine wools and rich colors are sold exclusively on the Peninsula by MAXINE'S on Dolores.

Soft, strong narrow-wale corduroy goes into the overalls for young children in sizes 2 to 6 which you can find at PUTNAM AND RAGGETT on Ocean Avenue. Mothers of small children will bless Mr. Putnam and Mr. Raggett because there's nothing better to wear in Carmel than corduroy overalls. These overalls, by Hub Play Clothes, are exceptionally well made of the best material, in colors of red, blue, green and brown.

Mabs pantie girdles are attractive looking but business like with their firm elasticized fabrics and side zippers, and added to their efficiency and sleek beauty—which you will see in THE SILVER THIMBLE on Dolores south of Ocean—are several angelic cupids frolicking across the front of the girdle, which seems odd but is most decorative. THE SILVER THIMBLE has many warm robes, by the way, and a group of all wool jersey lounging pajamas with long tunic coats in bright colors that look very gay and comfortable too.

Mary Floyd Williams, author of the new novel Fortune, Smile Once More! a picaresque story of San Francisco's early days, will be honored at an autographing party in THE VILLAGE BOOK SHOP on Ocean between Dolores and San Carlos on the afternoon of Thursday, October 31. Everyone interested in Miss Williams or her book is invited to attend. At the party Edith Griffin will be assisted by her new manager, Dunning Somers, who has deserted the book business in Berkeley in order to realize his ambition of living in Carmel. After a B. A. received at University of California and an M. A. at Harvard and several years in the army, in Africa and the Aleutians, Mr. Somers finds every prospect pleasing in Carmel.

You could have a lot of fun arranging a tableau of your children and all their toys which MR. BILL SPANGLE, 1632-R, will then photograph for you and make into Christmas cards which will certainly be individual and not likely to be duplicated. Your friends and your absent family can like nothing better than a card with a picture of your children or your home to take to them a part of your own Christmas. MR. SPANGLE will make the photographic cards either from a picture you wish him to take of home or garden or family, or from a choice negative you may happen to have.

Here's a recipe that should produce desirable results: make one call to 5156 in Monterey for a table, take a giddy hat with sequins or feathers, surround with dinner music by Danny Danziger at six-thirty in the evening, place it above a dinner of Abalone Steak prepared Casa Munras Style, then shake all well together at nine with dance music again by Danziger, and prepare for a wonderful evening with dinner and dancing to be found at the CASA MUNRAS HOTEL in Monterey. You may use this formula any night in the week at the Casa Munras Hotel excepting only Monday night, when Mr. Danziger deserts his Hammond and his piano for a brief rest.

THE DINING ROOM of the LA RIBERA HOTEL is just a block or two away on the corner of Lincoln and Seventh and there you can have either a slow or a hurried lunch. If business presses, just drop a word to Thor Hellum when you enter the dining room and he'll see that you're served quickly. If you feel in a leisurely mood, take your time and listen to the music. For luncheon at LA RIBERA there are several interesting items on the agenda, such as ground round steak with mushroom sauce, a good fish dish, and omelettes with ham, sweet peppers or chicken livers. Luncheon is served from 12 noon to 2:00 p. m. and prices range from .65 to 1.10.

Miss Florence Berry, a trained cosmetician, has come to take charge of the cosmetic department at FORTIER'S on the corner of Ocean and Dolores. From the middle of the shining jars and bottles, the fragrant creams and lotions, Miss Berry will help you solve your beauty problems and find the proper shades of lipstick and powder to suit both your coloring and your skin texture. She'll show you how best to apply your make-up and help you select a perfume which best expresses your personality. On her shelves at FORTIER'S you'll find complete lines of cosmetics by Dorothy Gray, Primrose House and Tussy.

Into THE PIONEER next to the Post Office we went to find Mr. Hardy mulling over bills of lading that indicate his shelves will be piled high. From the bills and the boxes being unpacked, Mr. Hardy deduces the PIONEER will have cotton prints for sale in a fair quantity. Watch the PIONEER'S windows and the cotton yard goods will appear there. The baby department has been enlarged in the PIONEER and moved to the front of the store. We saw some fine soft Esmond baby blankets there to-day, with three inch satin binding. As a SPECIAL on Tuesday, you'll find TICKING at the PIONEER.

With the old preacher you may implore, "Prop us up in all our leanings!" or you may call the AILING HOUSE PEST CONTROL, 1844-W, to obtain professional service to prevent structural damage and to maintain the substructure of your buildings. AILING HOUSE PEST CONTROL eradicates any pest. Termites and dry-rot will be held at bay in your home as a result of such scientific treatment as the Creep-Slow-Absorption Method. You may protect and maintain with the services of AILING HOUSE PEST CONTROL.

HILLYER'S COFFEE HOUSE on San Carlos south of Ocean has a new French cook, by name Michael Youlden, who promises some delicious food in the way of barbecued meats, served and prepared with a sauce his father developed in Marseilles, France. Every Friday there'll be a French cream soup on the menu at HILLYER'S and this weekend smothered chicken with Bordelaise sauce leads the menu. Additionally there's always a good selection of steaks and chops at HILLYER'S.

The GROCERY DEPARTMENT of the CARMEL DRIVE-IN MARKET on Dolores and Eighth has fine amber honey gathered by California bees in fields of alfalfa. This is a light honey with a good flavor. In the same store is natural rice, unpollished as rice should be to preserve its food elements. This is California grown rice with moderately long grains. It's highly nutritious and has a better flavor than polished rice. Look at the Mexican seasoning in the store, too. You'll find sauces of green peppers and red peppers and several kinds of chile powders to liven up a meal. Ask for Mole Meco, Pipian Racchero or Mole Poblano.

GLEDHILL'S APPLIANCE and RADIO SHOP on Dolores and Seventh is equipped to do practically anything in regard to record players and amplifiers. Whether you want a machine repaired, remodeled or completely rebuilt, Mr. Gookin at GLEDHILL'S can do it for you. He will even build a complete record player and amplifying system that will give you better reproduction than you've ever had before. GLEDHILL'S specialize in service and repairs for all electrical equipment, radios, washing machines, ironers, vacuum cleaners and all table appliances.

For an enticing accent to your Hallowe'en entertaining, you'll find delicious cookies and cakes at the DOLORES BAKERY, decorated with seasonal motifs. Mario will have a decorated cake on display today to show what fine things he can do for your Hallowe'en party.

GETTING AROUND THE PENINSULA

By ROSALIND SHARPE

There's going to be a giant air show over the peninsula tomorrow afternoon scheduled to arrive around 2:50, sent down from the 12th Naval District in celebration of Navy Day. And this afternoon, the U. S. S. Boxer, a fleet carrier of the Essex class, under the command of Capt. Robert N. Hunter, U. S. N., will drop anchor in Monterey bay. Tomorrow morning, anyone minded to see what a fleet carrier is like and to explore the realm of companionways, ladders, decks and bulkheads, is invited to show up at the breakwater in Monterey, where, from 9:30 until 11:30 in the morning and again from 12:30 until 3:30 in the afternoon, boats will be waiting to carry visitors out to the ship.

The U. S. S. Boxer has been operating in the 7th fleet since her commissioning April 16, 1944, at the Norfolk navy yard, and has visited Guam, Saipan, Manila, Samar, Tokyo, and China. 888 feet long, she can carry approximately 100 naval aircraft, displaces 35,000 tons, and can carry a crew of 300 officers and 2,500 enlisted personnel.

Captain Robert Hunter, who served as commanding officer of Palmyra Island in the Pacific during the war, and later was in command of the Kaiser class carrier, the U. S. S. Kadashan Bay, during the Philippine campaign, will be aboard.

The current Jeanne D'Orge show (at the Pat Wall Modern Art Gallery in Monterey) is causing confirmed devotees of the "modern" school of painting to say in a somewhat bewildered manner, "Maybe art should be beautiful, after all." Jeanne's dream-like landscapes whose hills and skies are not built upon or of this earth but within the realm of clouds or perhaps in a world beyond the immediate reaches of physical perception; her feeling of rhythm and movement in space, her disclosure of timeless immensities, which sometimes makes the beholder feel that he is a part of some giant, feathered, swooping wing, looking through and into the moving, feeling world from the swift enormity of flight; her groups of mysterious, fantastic, merely-hinted, merely-sketched people, walking in processional or listening to music or awaiting the splendors of some unrevealed, undiscovered sky; the indescribable loveliness, brilliance and intensity of her color, which always seems luminous. . . . These things conspire to produce a revelation of beauty, all too rare in contemporary painting, which is causing people to exclaim, "I never knew before that art could be an experience," and "this beauty is such a relief . . . after a diet of cubes and angles, and dull landscapes which lack the sense of wholeness and of life."

The exhibit, which reminds so many of the poetry of William Blake, will be taken down Sunday, and it is possible that this will be the last exhibit of Jeanne D'Orge's work to be seen on this peninsula or in any other place.

Incidentally, there are rumors that Tak-i-Tak Lodge (Indian word for Hot Springs), Doc Murphy's resort at Hot Springs Creek, which closed down when the war started, may re-open in a year of two, with new buildings, a salt water plunge, etc. This, however, is merely in the rumor stage, and meanwhile people keep going down for the hot sulphur baths in the tubs over the sea cliff. According to Mr. Russell, caretaker and fee-collector, the sulphur water contains sulphur and arsenic in such minute quantities that it has no special medicinal value, and people would be benefited just as much by a long soak in their tubs at home. Others, however, claim miraculous cures, particularly for arthritis, and anyway, it is more glamorous to take a bath outdoors, looking out over the ocean, listening to the waves and the cry of gulls. . . . And people like Henry Miller (author of "Air-Conditioned Nightmare," "Tropic of Cancer," etc.) and his wife, Lep-ska, are to be encountered occasionally in the democracy of the tubs.

Ernest Seton

Mrs. Nelson Miles Leoni received word Wednesday morning of the death at 9 a. m. in Santa Fe, New Mexico, of her uncle, Ernest Seton, nationally known writer of nature books.

He has a number of friends among Carmel old timers, as he visited here frequently at the home of his brother-in-law, Frank Powers, one of Carmel's founders, his last visit taking place in the early thirties.

His interest in wild life and nature, a life-long pre-occupation, led to his founding many years ago the Woodcraft League, the forerunner of the Boys and Girls Scouts, a career of lecturing on nature subjects which he continued up to the time of his death, the establishment of The College of Indian Wisdom in New Mexico, and the authorship of such beloved books as Bambi, Wild Animals I Have Known, and many others.

His daughter, Yan Seton, follows her father in exercise of the writing talent, her novel Dragonwick winning a spot on the best seller list several years ago.

ATTENDS SORORITY MEET

Mrs. Elise deCelles Beaton, president of the local chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, an honorary sorority for women in education, left today on the Lark to attend a state executive board meeting of the sorority, which will be held at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles. Mrs. Beaton will return Sunday.

highly qualified pianists. Judging by audience reaction, the Chopin scherzo was the high point of the evening.

The high standard set by Mrs. Wurzburg was maintained by Carl Bensberg in the closing numbers of the program. Mr. Bensberg has made great progress in the last several years, as those who were privileged to hear his recital a few months ago clearly appreciated. On this occasion he sang the Tu Lo Sai and Open Thy Blue Eyes by Massenet, selections particularly well adapted to his voice. After the program punch and cookies were enjoyed by the guests.
